

Satellite radio provides quality programming, something that most FM broadcast stations lack these days. Broadcast radio has been an ongoing let down for me. The quality of music has dropped, commercials are in high quantity, and the sound quality is terrible compared to modern recording methods.

Satellite radio solves these problems, and that's why it's set to be the next big thing. Our country strives off of innovation, that's how we progress. This is a service people want to pay for because it's a better service than the current free alternative.

Please don't create an artificial barrier in the growth of this wonderful new technology.
